Through dialogue and training we aim to promote good relations and well-being between people in our society.

With the introduction of the Equality Act 2010 it is vital that organisations have an understanding and awareness of the needs of diverse communities.

This will help ensure that you are treating your service users and staff with respect and understanding and that you plan your services accordingly. Services and employment policies are required to be fair and equitable and not unintentionally biased or give offence thereby helping to protect you from any legal challenges .

We can offer training on a range of topics tailored to your needs. Please tell us if you have any other specific training requirements.

We can offer the training at a venue of your choice.
